Superior court—May term, 1864.

1571. COMMONWEALTH vs. HENRY CLARK.

I, Asahel Huntington, clerk of said court, do hereby certify that in the above-entitled case the defendant pleaded not guilty, and on the trial of the same before the jury he admitted all the acts set forth and charged in the indictment as done by him, but offered in evidence, in justification or defence thereof, a certain paper or license from the government of the United States, an attested copy whereof, filed in the case at the time of the trial, May 25, 1864, is hereto annexed. No question was made as to the genuineness or authenticity of said license, but the court ruled that such license constituted no defence or justification in law in this case, and a verdict was returned for the government.

In testimony whereof, I have hereunto set my hand and the seal of said court this 10th day of January, A. D. 1865.
